Le Mans Endurance Driving—The Ultimate Event !

If you have a large or small group looking for a unique team building experience and a new level of excitement, the Le Mans Endurance event is the ultimate test of a team's ability to work towards a common goal.

Following a safety briefing, groups are divided into teams working together and will drive the same kart for the entire event. One team member starts the event while other members are in the pits getting ready for driver changes, executing their event strategy, and ensuring all members have the opportunity to drive.

The goal is to complete the most laps in the allotted time. This format is perfect for experienced and novice drivers alike, as they test themselves on the track.
